Homeopathy for Children

Individual care for common childhood complaints, from recurring colds to skin problems and worries, chosen to suit each child's temperament.

About this care

Homeopathic medicines are prepared from natural plant, mineral and animal sources, and treatment aims to support the body's own restorative processes.

For children, a constitutional remedy is often chosen. It is prescribed during the symptom-free part of the year and is matched to the child's individual temperament.

Homeopathic treatment can take longer than conventional medicines, but many families value its gentler, individual approach.

Common complaints Dr. Ritu sees

- Common respiratory infections, such as acute sinusitis and rhinitis
- Skin problems, such as atopic dermatitis and infantile eczema
- Bedwetting (nocturnal enuresis)
- Fear, anxiety and insecurity
- Low immunity and recurring infections

Please note

Homeopathy is a complementary approach. This page is general information, not a diagnosis or a promise of a particular result, and it does not replace advice from your own doctor. Do not stop or change prescribed medication without medical advice.
